and new, check comments at the bottom of the ad to make sure I'm not trying to sell you a b-seat that's been stolen, this is a new vehicle that was produced 4 years ago in a country which still has been subject to US sanctions, the vehicle uses the original engine as a 3bhp 3 stroke with original tachometer, it was not titled in the USA and it was brought here last year to be sold by a dealer here in the US, it has a clean interior, fender rash, and body work all in top condition, the seller drives the vehicle, and offers a very fair and honest price for a vehicle in this condition and age, this is a rare find for this age and condition. Last week I purchased a 2010 F-150 SuperCrew 5.6 which was a non-running, non-working, non-titled, non-licensed vehicle brought from the country of Mexico to be sold by this dealer here in the US, the owner was originally from the US and purchased the vehicle here in the US and had it titled with his Mexican driver's license, the truck was registered in the state of Florida with a government tag, and it was not titled in any country when he purchased it, since I was able to track it through the VIN number, the truck was legal at the time it was sold here in the US, it was sold with dealer paint and rims, the tires were worn and it had one minor rock chip on the passenger side, the tires were replaced 3 months ago, it had a small rock chip in the driver's side, the rim, brakes, and gearbox were in good condition, the transmission was not broken at the time it was sold, the engine was inspected and was running at the time of sale, the fuel injection pump was checked out, it was found to be working properly, and the whole ignition system was replaced when it was purchased, the front suspension was inspected and found to be in good condition, the rear suspension was inspected and found to be in good condition, the engine was inspected and found to be working properly, it was all described in a mechanic's report, and the manufacturer's warranty was written out on a pink slip, the vehicle was inspected for any codes and the vehicle was cleared, the vehicle was inspected for damage, there was no damage, it was driven the 4 hours to me from the owner's home, it was driven on a perfectly good road surface, and it was driven to my home 82157476af
